PREFACE.

THE Editor having endeavoured to supply an obvious deficiency in that useful class of publications, denominated books of reference, by a work, which, besides containing the names of the Dignitaries of the Church, embraces a comprehensive view of the whole Ecclesiastical Establishment of England; presumes to offer the result of his labours with some degree of confidence, that it will be found worthy of public patronage.

It would be superfluous to enlarge upon the advantages of an arrangement, now for the first time adopted, which presents, at a single glance, the description of a Benefice; points out the County, Diocese, and Archdeaconry, in which it is situated; affords a competent idea of the extent of the parish or place, by stating the number of its inhabitants; and of the value of the living, by the sum at which it is rated in the King's Books; shews, likewise, the name of its Patron and Possessor; and, by a second reference, whether the Incumbent holds any other preferment attached to, or independent of it.

The accommodation not only of those who may desire information relative to any particular Benefice, its Patron, or Incumbent, has been consulted; but of professional persons, and others, who have occasion to search for wills, examine registers, or enquire after parochial documents. The trouble of numerous references to different parts of the volume, being rendered unnecessary, the mistakes and confusion frequently occasioned thereby, will be, of course, avoided; and the CLERICAL GUIDE, combining within a moderate compass, and at, comparatively, a moderate price, the most useful particulars contained in those elaborate and expensive works of ECTON and BACON; together with many important additions, and especially that of the names of the Parochial Clergy, will be found to possess all the essentials to render it a complete ECCLESIASTICAL DIRECTORY, generally convenient to the Public, and adapted to facilitate the intercourse of men of letters.

In a work of such extent and variety, many inaccuracies and omissions will require an apology; for these, the Editor trusts, that it will be some excuse to plead the difficulty of obtaining correct information; the labour of arranging the particulars, kindly and promptly afforded; and the impossibility, in some instances, of gaining access to authentic records, notwithstanding reiterated solicitations, and entreaties made with the most respectful earnestness: and those defects and errors, which the utmost exertions of his industry and assiduity have not been able to prevent or correct, will, it is hoped, meet with the candid indulgence of all who know how to estimate the literary drudgery of so multifarious a compilation.

And although the daily changes which are taking place in so numerous a body as that of the English Clergy, must necessarily render permanent correctness unattainable; the benefit of handing down to posterity, as well as of presenting to the view of contemporaries, even this catalogue of their names, can not but be acknowledged, both in the circles of domestic friendship and personal acquaintance, and by all who feel an interest in the moral and political effects of an establishment founded upon the noblest principles, designed for the best of purposes, supported by a happy union of wisdom and policy, and affording an illustrious example of the advantages of sound learning under the guidance of Religion and Piety.

The Editor begs leave to mention, with becoming gratitude, the obligation which he very sensibly feels to the Right Reverend PRELATES, and other distinguished members of the Church, by whom he has been honoured with generous encouragement, and liberal communications in the progress of this undertaking; and, in an especial manner, to acknowledge the condescension of His Grace the Lord ARCHBISHOP of YORK, and their Lordships the BISHOPS of LONDON, DURHAM, WINCHESTER, CHICHESTER, LINCOLN, BANGOR, NORWICH CARLISLE, BRISTOL, ELY, CHESTER, GLOUCESTER, and LANDAFF; and thus publicly to offer his most humble and most respectful thanks.

Of the execution of a task far more arduous than had been anticipated by himself, and, perhaps, than may be readily conceived by others; he will only venture to add, that whatsoever degree of zeal and industry he brought to the commencement of the work, has been incessantly employed throughout the whole course of it. He has not suffered it to be overcome by difficulties however numerous, nor relaxed by encouragement however flattering. The Editor will not pretend to boast of that "frigid tranquillity," which is, perhaps, the best security against the effects of criticism, as well as disappointment; but can, nevertheless, "look with pleasure" upon his book, "however defective, and deliver it to the "world with the spirit of a man who has endeavoured well."

ADVERTISEMENT.

In order to render the CLERICAL GUIDE a correct and complete Register of the CHURCH of ENGLAND and its PATRONAGE, it is earnestly and respectfully requested, that such PATRONS or INCUMBENTS, whose Names or Titles may have been improperly inserted, mis-spelt, or omitted, will be pleased to address a line (post paid) to the Publisher, that an early opportunity may be afforded of correcting such inaccuracy; and notices of Removal or Preferment communicated in like manner, will be received with due attention.

POSTSCRIPT.

THE length of time occupied in printing this volume, although it has afforded to the Editor the benefit of many valuable communications, which have enabled him to correct some important inaccuracies, has, in a considerable degree, increased the difficulty of making the lists of PATRONS and INCUMBENTS so perfect as he could have desired to do, and rendered it necessary to add the following notices of

CLERICAL GUIDE, &c.

In the First Column, Market and Borough Towns are distinguished by a * ; and R for Rectory, V for Vicarage, C for Chapelry, P. C. for Perpetual Curacy, and D for Donative.

The Figures in the Second Column shew the Number of Inhabitants.

The County, Diocese, and Archdeaconry, or peculiar Jurisdiction follow successively: then the Name of the Incumbent.

In the Seventh the Value in the King's Books, marked (‡) when discharged from the Payment of First Fruits; or C. V. for Clear Yearly Value when certified in order to obtain the benefit of the Augmentation Acts; and in the last Column is the Title or Name of the Patron, or, if a dependent Chapelry, that of the Mother Church.

N. B. A line ——— in either of the Columns, always refers to the Name or Word immediately above it.
